

Dan's short bio.

Born in Tacoma, WA

Raised and educated in southern California until midway through high school.

I went to college in Washington and studied at a community college to learn to make pottery in the art dept. and to learn to weld in the industrial trades dept.

I went to Western Washington University and studied more art: printmaking, pottery, bronze casting and art history. I have always been interested in the manual arts, construction, shop classes of all kinds.

I have been making objects all my life as a way to express my thoughts and feelings about the world and how I view it.

I like to think that I have the soul of a poet but instead of writing it I like to make these feelings into an object. For me it's a form of meditation.

When I am working on a piece I feel a connection to all the hands in the world that create and make.
